MARKET ANALYSIS

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

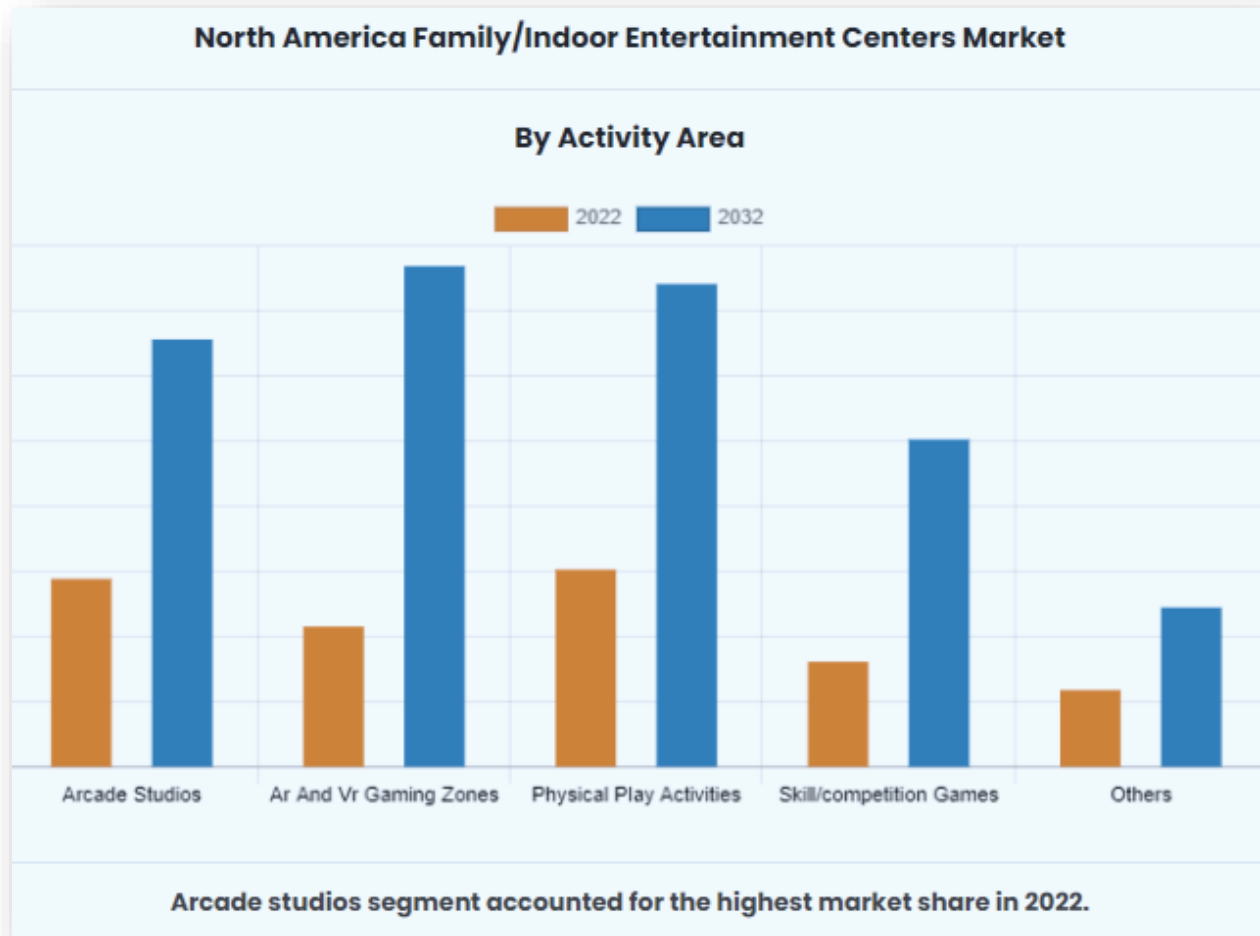

NORTH AMERICA FAMILY/INDOOR ENTERTAINMENT CENTERS MARKET

The North America family/indoor entertainment centers market was valued at $10.86 billion in 2022, and is projected to reach $29.15 billion by 2032, growing at a CAGR of 10.7% from 2023 to 2032.

A family entertainment center, or FEC, is a type of venue that provides a range of activities and attractions for families and individuals of all ages. These centers typically offer a variety of activities such as arcade games, mini-golf, laser tag, trampoline parks, bowling, and virtual reality experiences. FECs are designed to provide safe and fun environments for families to spend time together and create lasting memories. FECs often incorporate a range of interactive and immersive experiences, using technology such as augmented and virtual reality to create engaging and exciting experiences.

Many FECs offer food & beverage options, from snack stands to full-service restaurants and bars, providing a complete entertainment experience. Furthermore, FECs cater to a wide range of ages and interests, making them a popular destination for families, birthday parties, corporate events, and social outings. They provide an opportunity for families to spend quality time together while engaging in activities that are both fun and challenging.

Moreover, the FEC industry is constantly evolving, with new attractions and experiences being developed to keep up with changing consumer preferences.

FECs often incorporate new technologies and interactive experiences to stay ahead of the curve and provide a unique and exciting experience for visitors.

Thus, family entertainment centers provide a safe and enjoyable way for families to spend time together while engaging in a range of fun activities. FECs are a popular destination for families and individuals looking for fun and engaging entertainment with their variety of attractions, food & beverage offerings, and focus on immersive experiences.

One of the major drivers of the family entertainment center market is the favorable youth demographics. The younger generation tends to prioritize experiences over material possessions, which has led to surge in demand for entertainment centers that offer a range of fun and engaging activities. This trend is expected to continue as younger generations grow up and continue to seek out new and exciting entertainment options across North America. Furthermore, increase in number of malls and continuous launch of new FECs supporting family activities, F&B integration, and participatory play in North America are the major driving factors for the market.

However, surge in ticket prices is a major hampering factor for the market. As FECs continue to invest in new technologies and attractions, the cost of visiting these centers has increased. This could lead to a decrease in demand, particularly for families with limited budgets. In addition, rise in popularity of home and mobile gaming is a major restraining factor for the market. On the contrary, the surge in investments in new games and attractions across North America is one of the opportunities for the family entertainment center market. FECs that invest in new and exciting attractions are expected to attract more visitors and retain existing customers.

FAMILY ENTERTAINMENT CENTERS SET TO SURGE THROUGH 2026

FECs catering to younger audiences seeking both physical and social entertainment have superseded the traditional amusement arcade.

Family entertainment centers have experienced significant growth worldwide since consumers have become more confident about treating themselves to more leisure opportunities since the pandemic. The growth, however, precedes the pandemic, as amusement machine manufacturers have introduced more immersive experiences along with more contactless and cashless payment methods that cater to today's audience.

The family entertainment center market estimates a market value of $21.05 billion per the latest market report by Technavio, a market researcher. In addition, the research projects the market to progress at a combined annual growth rate of 12.29% through 2026.

AUDIENCES SEEK NEW EXPERIENCES

The growth of FECs has been largely driven by an increase in the number of teen and adult customers who are shifting from playing videos games at home toward collectible action strategy and war-based arcade gaming, according to the research report.

GAME TECHNOLOGY EVOLVES

Innovations in game technology have changed gaming from 2D gameplay on a screen, which only requires gamers to use their hands, to virtual reality, in which the gamer can experience the virtual world of gaming, the Technavio report noted.

The rising integration of VR in games is one of the key FEC market trends that is expected to impact the industry positively in the forecast period. The main goal of VR is to stimulate the user's physical presence in a virtual environment.

FECs are implementing loyalty programs, birthday party packages, and VIP memberships that offer exclusive perks and benefits, allowing guests to customize their experience and feel valued as customers.
- Sustainability Initiatives: Environmental sustainability is gaining traction in the family entertainment industry, with FECs implementing eco-friendly practices and initiatives to reduce their carbon footprint.
